Medex® Choice
Solution to Supplement Medicare

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts is an Independent Licensee of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association
With Medex Choice, you’ll get the coverage you need—coverage that goes beyond Original Medicare.

Referrals You Can Trust.

With Medex Choice, you will choose a primary care provider (PCP) to coordinate your care. Your Choice primary care provider will be part of a group of health care providers, specialists, and hospitals whom they know and trust. This helps the doctors who care for you communicate better and give you more coordinated health care. Although a friend or relative may recommend a particular doctor, your Choice primary care provider’s expert recommendation is based on what’s best for your specific medical condition.

Medex Choice and How It Works

Many people who enroll in Original Medicare are surprised to learn that it doesn’t provide the coverage they expect. After all, deductibles, co-insurance, and gaps in health care coverage can amount to thousands of dollars in expenses a year. That’s why so many Massachusetts residents with Medicare turn to Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts. Medex Choice, a part of our family of Medicare supplement plans, is designed to cover these gaps in Medicare. Medex Choice helps you save money by lowering your out-of-pocket expenses. Medex Choice covers the gaps in your Medicare benefits by paying all or part of the costs you have to pay for Medicare-covered services (like your Medicare deductible and co-insurance) and some other services that are not covered by Medicare.

When you enroll for Medex Choice coverage, you will be required to choose a primary care provider (PCP) and follow plan requirements—including referrals to specialists. Benefits received outside of the HMO Blue network are only covered by Original Medicare, except in the case of emergency medical care and urgent care. If you choose your PCP from one of the Medex Choice medical groups listed on the next page, you will receive Medex Choice enhanced coverage. This includes coverage for 100 percent of your Medicare Part A and Part B deductibles and for Medicare-covered admissions in a skilled nursing facility for days 1 through 100. If you choose a non-Choice PCP, you will receive more limited coverage. See pages 8–14 for further details of Medex Choice benefits when you choose a Choice PCP.

Please see page 20 to learn more about referrals.

An Introduction to Medex Choice

Medex Choice is a Medicare supplement plan offered by Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts HMO Blue, a wholly controlled subsidiary of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts. It can be added to Medicare A and B coverage to fill “gaps” in your Medicare coverage.

As a supplemental insurance plan, Medex Choice helps cover health care expenses left over after Medicare has covered its portion of costs.

At the time you enroll for Medex Choice coverage, you will be required to choose a primary care provider from the HMO Blue network. The primary care provider that you choose is referred to as your PCP. If you choose your PCP from one of the medical groups on page 3, you will be eligible to receive Medex Choice enhanced coverage, such as full coverage for your Medicare Part A and Part B deductibles and for Medicare-covered admissions in a skilled nursing facility. Your Choice PCP will usually refer you to a provider affiliated with their Medex Choice medical group for needed specialist or hospital care.

Medex Choice policy will not restrict payment for covered services provided by non-HMO Blue network providers if both of the following conditions exist: (a) The services are for symptoms requiring emergency care or are immediately required for an unforeseen illness, injury, or condition; and (b) it is not reasonable to obtain services through HMO Blue network providers.

Medex Choice may cover some or virtually all of Medicare cost-sharing amounts, or “gaps,” as well as some services not covered by Medicare. You’ll learn more about Medicare cost-sharing amounts in the next few pages.

But let’s begin by exploring how Medicare works and how you might benefit from our Medex Choice supplemental plan.
What Is Original Medicare?

Original Medicare is a federally funded health insurance plan. It is designed for people age 65 or older and some disabled people under age 65.

Original Medicare has two parts:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Medicare Part A</th>
<th>Medicare Part B</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&lt;p&gt;pays for inpatient hospital charges, skilled nursing facility care, and hospice care.&lt;/p&gt;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&lt;p&gt;pays for outpatient hospital charges, doctor visits, and many other medical services not covered by Part A.&lt;/p&gt;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Services covered:

Facility Care
- Inpatient hospital care
- Skilled nursing facility care
- Hospice care

Medical Expenses
- Doctors’ services
- Physical and speech therapy
- Diagnostic tests
- Ambulance trips
- Durable medical equipment
- Diabetic testing supplies
Why Do I Need to Supplement Medicare?

Although Medicare pays a large portion of your medical expenses, you are responsible for the remaining costs. Also, Medicare does not cover all medical services in all situations.

Some important things to know about Medicare:

- You may have to pay deductible and co-insurance costs. When Medicare covers a service, you often must pay for a portion of the cost. Your portion is referred to as a deductible or co-insurance. A deductible is the amount you are responsible for before Medicare begins to pay, and it is subject to increase from year to year. After your deductible is paid, you may need to pay an additional amount—usually 20 percent of the cost for the service—called co-insurance.

- Expenses that are not covered by Medicare are often referred to as “gaps.” Medicare supplement (“Medigap”) plans, such as Medex, help to fill in these coverage gaps. They help you pay Medicare’s deductible and co-insurance costs, and cover certain services Medicare doesn’t.

Please refer to the charts on pages 8 through 14 for coverage when Medicare is combined with a Medex Choice plan.

How Referrals Work

Your Choice primary care provider (PCP) will often refer you to health care providers within their own groups and to hospitals they know and trust. This helps the doctors who care for you communicate better and give you more coordinated health care. Although a friend or relative may recommend a particular doctor, your primary care provider’s expert recommendation is based on what’s best for your specific medical condition.

What Is a Referral?

When you and your primary care provider determine that you need specialized care, your primary care provider “refers” you to a provider within the HMO Blue provider Network. A referral is required by your Medex Choice plan before the plan will cover certain services. If you do not have a referral from your PCP before you get care from an HMO Blue specialist, your Medex Choice plan may not provide coverage for your care. In this situation, you will still be covered for your Medicare benefits. But, you may have to pay the costs that are not covered by Medicare (such as your Medicare deductibles and coinsurance). It’s important that the referral comes from your primary care provider—not only because your plan requires it, but also because your primary care provider needs to be involved with the care you’re receiving so they can coordinate with you and your specialist on an ongoing basis.

Why Do I Have to Check with My Primary Care Provider Before Seeing a Specialist?

Your primary care provider knows your history and overall health, so they are best qualified to help you decide if you should see a specialist. In order to better coordinate your care, they may want to evaluate your needs before you see a specialist. Your primary care provider is committed to making sure you get the right care, at the right time, in the right setting—including when you need to see a specialist.

How Do I Request a Referral?

Contact your primary care provider to discuss your health situation. Together you can decide if you need a specialist. If you do need a specialist, your primary care provider will help you choose the most appropriate doctor for the care you need. Be sure to have this conversation before you visit a specialist. If you do not have a referral from your PCP before you get care from a specialist, your Medex Choice plan may not provide coverage for your care. In this situation, you still have the right to receive your Medicare benefits. But, you may have to pay the costs that are not covered by Medicare (such as your Medicare deductibles and coinsurance).
Where Will I Be Referred for Services and Specialties?
Your primary care provider relies on a trusted network that includes a wide range of specialists to carry out your treatment plan. Primary care providers (PCPs) are part of the Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts HMO Blue® provider network. When you need specialized care, your PCP will work with you to identify the best doctor for your care and provide a referral, most often to doctors and hospitals with whom they are affiliated in the HMO Blue® provider Network.

It's very important to always discuss your clinical condition and concerns with your primary care provider to determine if a specialist visit is needed and which doctor is best for you.

Are There Times When I Don’t Need a Referral?
Because your primary care provider coordinates your care, you should always let them know when you seek treatment of any kind. There are certain instances, however, when you don’t need a referral from your primary care provider and will still be covered by your plan. Some examples include emergency medical care, covered annual gynecological exams, and required follow-up services.

If you do not have a required referral from your primary care provider before you get care from a specialist, Medex Choice may not provide coverage for your care. You will still be covered for your Medicare benefits, whether or not you have a referral from your PCP for the care.

Who Should I See if an Emergency Room Recommends Follow-Up Care at Their Facility?
As the coordinator of your care, you should always contact your selected primary care provider about your emergency room visit. He or she will determine the best follow-up care for you.

How Do I Know if My Health Plan Requires Referrals?
There are several ways to learn about your plan’s referral requirements:
• Visit Member Central at www.bluecrossma.com/membercentral
• Call Member Service at the number on the front of your Blue Cross ID card
It’s essential that you fully understand your plan’s referral requirements, because if you don’t get a required referral prior to receiving non-emergency care, Medex Choice may not provide coverage for your care.

Who Do I Call if I Have a Question About a Referral?
If you need information about whether a service is covered or requires a referral, please call Member Service at the number on the front of your Blue Cross ID card or visit www.bluecrossma.com/membercentral.
